What is APYE? How is it different than APY?

Annual Percentage Yield Earned (APYE) and Annual Percentage Yield (APY) are different calculations designed for different purposes. APYE is an annualized rate that shows the yield earned during a statement period expressed as a single rate, taking into account interest rate changes, balance fluctuations and the effect of when interest begins to accrue on your deposits.

The APY is an annualized rate that shows the yield an account would earn, including the effect of interest compounding, assuming funds remain in the account for one year. So, for accounts that are subject to rate fluctuations and transaction activity, the APYE will generally be different than the APY that was disclosed when you opened your account.

Are interest rate changes reflected on my statement?

Yes. Any interest rate changes that may have occurred during this statement period have been included in the calculation of your interest.

How do I make a deposit?

- Online: You can transfer funds via your online account at synchronybank.com. To register an external account, you'll need your external account number and the other bank's routing number.
- Mobile: You can make a mobile deposit by taking a picture of your check and following a few easy instructions.
- From External Bank: You can transfer funds directly from an external account by giving the other bank your Synchrony Bank account number and Routing Number 021213591.
- Direct Deposit: You can have wages or government benefits directly deposited into your account.
- Check: You can also send a check payable to yourself with a deposit slip that states your Synchrony Bank account number on the memo line, endorsed "For Deposit Only" to our address on the front of your statement.

What are some tips for keeping my ATM and Debit Card information safe?

Keep your card in a secure place and your PIN private. Go to another ATM if you notice suspicious activity or feel uncomfortable. If the ATM facility has an entry door, close it completely before using the ATM. When using a drive-up ATM, keep all car doors locked and windows up, other than the one you're using, with the engine running. Before leaving the ATM facility, put away your cash and receipt.
